The Dockrell 27 is very strongly built small long keel shallow draft yacht which has an innovative shallow wing keel. The keel has a flared base which helps to keep the ballast weight low and assists in taking the ground upright.

The rig is Bermudan cutter with in mast reefing on the main sail. This version has been well maintained by her present owner and is priced to sell.

The engine has been lightly used and enjoys excellent access from both the cockpit sole and the saloon.

The accommodation is attractive with new upholstery.

The galley has a two burner gas hob with grill.

There is a total of five berths available in two cabins. Two berths with infill making a double in the fore cabin, with a separate heads adjacent. In the saloon there are two singles, one of which can convert to a double. The saloon double can be either a single or a double as required, and is 7ft 4in long if the crew includes a giant!
